Anthony Field is an Australian musician and actor. He is best known as a member of the children's group The Wiggles and for his involvement in the 1980's and 90's chart-topping band The Cockroaches with his brothers, Paul and John, and Purple Wiggle Jeff Fatt.

As the creator of The Wiggles, Anthony produces all of the music for the group, writes and directs all their live shows and is the Blue Wiggle. Since forming almost twenty years ago, The Wiggles have achieved phenomenal success worldwide; including, selling over 23 million videos/DVDs and 7 million CD's, being broadcast in over 120 countries and selling out countless live shows.

As a result of the group's success and strong reputation, they have had the opportunity to partner with leading companies such as Medibank and Volkswagen, and have been highly recognised through many awards and acknowledgements. Perhaps, most notable of their achievements, The Wiggles were named UNICEF Goodwill Ambassadors in 2008, were awarded honorary doctorate degree from both Australian Catholic University and Macquarie University, and the four original members of the group were in 2010 appointed Members in the Order of Australia for their service to the arts in Australia, especially children's entertainment, and for their contributions and support of several Charities. In addition to this, Anthony partly hosted Steve Irwin's memorial, which was televised around the world in September 2006.

In 2008, Anthony along with his brother Paul, created two new children's television series, The Kingdom of Paramithi, and Baby Antonio's Circus. Both series have been broadcasted within Australia and several other countries and are continually developing as independent successful children's brands.

In addition to his public profile as the Blue Wiggle, Anthony is internationally recognised as the host of the Australian television series RSPCA Animal Rescue. The reality show has to date aired four series on Channel 7, each episode successfully attracting an average audience of 1.6 million viewers. It has also been broadcasted overseas, including in New Zealand and London.

In the last few years, Anthony has developed a passion for fitness, in particular for gymnastics and acrobatics. He was recently interviewed and photographed by popular Australian magazine Men's Health for an article about keeping fit and healthy at any age, and is in the near future set to release a book which touches on his dedication to looking after yourself physically and mentally. Anthony also has a keen interest in cycling and driving his boat around Sydney Harbour, both of which he does on a regular basis.
