Television Reporter /Presenter and Writer, Michelle's career has involved all aspects of the media. This extremely popular personality has a background that includes modeling, acting, adventure reporting, producing and stand-up comedy.

Michelle enjoyed the role of activities reporter on the Channel 9 adventure show Escape with ET for a number of years combining extreme adventure, extraordinary places and nerves of steel.

Her adventure stories involved a jaw dropping collage of abseiling, rock climbing, snow skiing, snow boarding, scuba diving, bungee jumping, sky diving, sea kayaking, swimming with dolphins, feeding sharks, lions and crocodiles.

In 2002 Michelle joined a select group of Australia's top celebrities in the Australian Grand Prix celebrity race, proving to be highly competitive and fastest on track mid week.

She was then asked back in 2005 being one of the few drivers to be invited to participate in the Celebrity challenge for a second time.

In April 2002 Michelle was chosen as the Australian presenter for 'E! Network Style 'Glow', shot in the Daintree forest and shown world wide to an audience of 80 million people in the US alone.

She has appeared at several venues around Sydney as a stand-up comedian and MC.

With the birth of her first child, Montana, in 2003 Michelle left Escape with ET to focus on her new role of Mother. She soon included the role of Business woman, initiating her own company Mrs Walsh, selling intimate apparel and baby wear through distributors nationwide on line through her website www.mrswalsh.com.au

Michelle has been extensively involved in Australia's short film industry and was proud to be invited to Rome for The Australian Focus Film Festival in 2004 as guest of the Australian Ambassador alongside Michael Caton.

In 2006 Michelle and husband Martin welcomed their second daughter Makenzie into the world and Michelle added Columnist to her resume as a contributing writer for the hugely popular Wentworth Courier.
