

Tammin Sursok

From 2000-2004 Tammin played the part of Dani Sutherland, a feisty teenager, in the popular television production of "Home and Away". The programme is currently on Channel 7 in Australia, Channel 5 in the U.K. and is shown in 40 countries throughout the world.

In 2001, at the age of 17, Tammin: won the "Logie" Australian Television Award for the "Best New Female Talent". In 2001 Tammin also featured as the face of Bonds Range of female apparel.

She has appeared in various television commercials, including a Youth and Alcohol Abuse advertisement, an Anti-Smoking campaign and various magazine advertising campaigns.

In 2002 Tammin was appointed Junior Youth Ambassador for New South Wales. In March of 2002 Australian FHM Magazine readers voted her 6th sexiest woman in the world.

Tammin has been very active on the Internet and in 2002, Tammin launched her official website — tamminsursok.com.au for her many fans.

In 2003 Tammin signed a recording contract with Sony BMG Music. Her Song BMG website is www.tammin.cot;

In April 2003 Tammin received the Centenary Medal for — "Service to Australian Society and Acting". This commemorative medal is awarded by the Governor General of Australia.

On December 1st 2003 Tammin was nominated for the Australian of the Year Awards 2004. This pre eminent programme recognises excellence and service by Australians in all fields of endeavour.

During 2004 Tammin recorded her first album in Australia, Sweden, UK, and California. Tammin left Channel 7 in September 2004.

Sony BMG Australia released her first single "Pointless Relationship" in October 2004 which debuted at number 2 in the Australian ARIA Charts and in March 2004, Tammin 's second single "Whatever will be" debut at number three on the Australian charts.

In January 2005, Tammin: featured in a 20th Century Fox Film called Aquamarine, filmed on the Gold Coast in Australia.

In February 2005, L'Oreal Australia signed Tammin as their female ambassador for the Biotherm skincare range.

During the months of June, July and August 2005, Tammin was the face of Pepsi Cola beverages. In November 2005, Tammin joined The Gersch Agency based in Los Angeles.

In February 2006, Tammin relocated to LA.

In March 2006, Aquamarine is due to be released worldwide.